

Margie Ireland

Leadership & Career Coach | Psychologist

M: 0418 734 425 | E: margie@connect-inspire-transform.com

Margie is creating a new path for individuals, leaders and organisations to connect and engage with their people in a more effective, unique and meaningful way. Margie's approach to providing support offers a commercial and psychological lens to your people and teams. Her coaching methodology is evidence-based using business and psychological principles, from her personal experiences in career transition and transformation lessons learned overcoming obstacles in her own business ventures.

Margie has been coaching and consulting to organisations for 15 years. This includes being an owner and partner in two businesses as well as leading and coaching teams in executive recruitment and search firms. Previously she had a ten-year career in IT with a prior career as an actor. Margie is a polished facilitator and speaker who inspires small and large groups by sharing her own story, and importantly her ongoing research and experience regarding work goals and well-being and the strategies that can lead to an increase in both for Leaders and their teams. She further explores the mechanisms that increase and decrease stress in the workplace.

Margie has developed a passion and skill for coaching and mentoring individuals and teams experiencing difficulties in achieving career and business goals, while helping organisations understand what negatively impacts performance, how to solve this problem and therefore create sustainable high-performance teams.
